Defense Procurement & Acquisition Policy

Vision:

Lead Defense Acquisition to Meet DoD's
Needs With Excellence Every Time

Mission:

Develop, promote, and champion innovative Defense policies and processes for acquiring all the goods and services DoD requires to perform its mission.

Overview

- Background
- Results
- Process Change
- Technology Insertion
- DFARS Cases of Interest

Today's DFARS

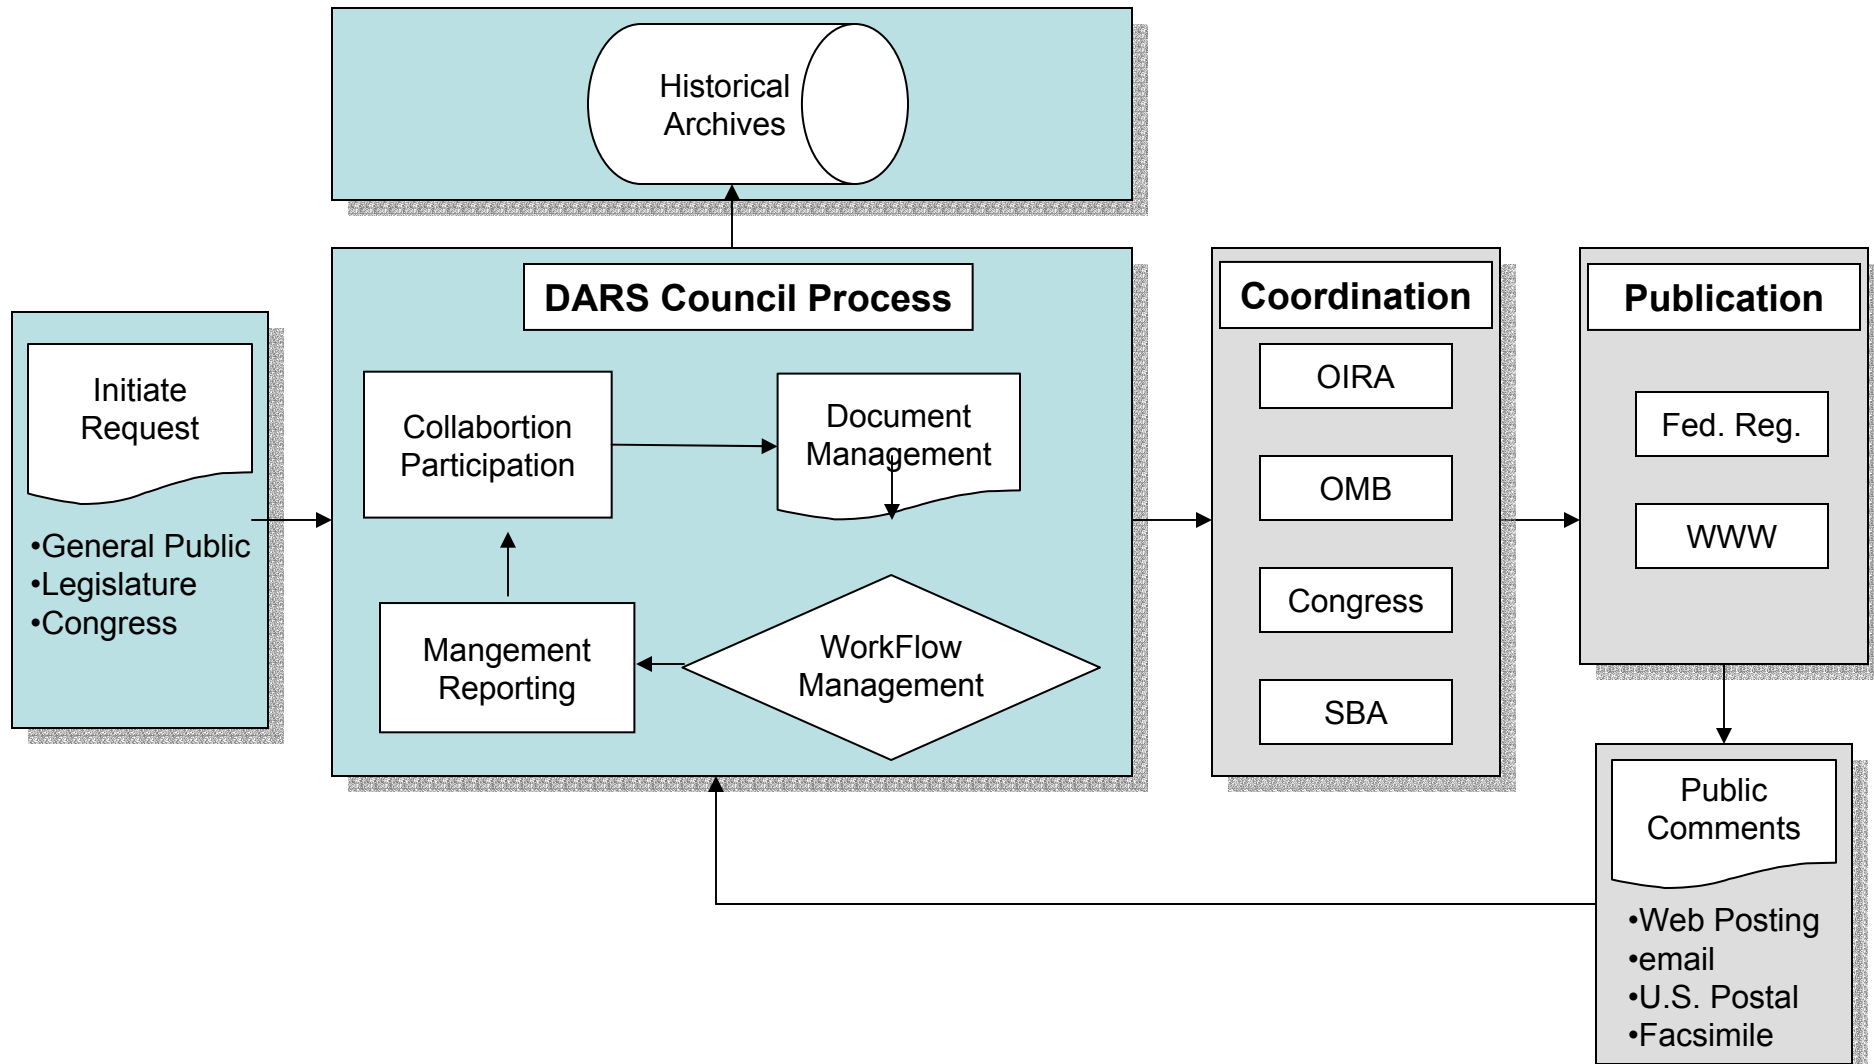

- Important to sound business relationships
 - Supports ~ $140 B in contract obligations per FY
 - $2.4 Trillion in obligations since publication
- On-line - DFARS is not available in paper
 - Eliminated 40,000 paper copies + 160,000 copies of changes per year
- Service FAR supplements are shrinking
 - Greater focus on program execution
 - Greater need flexibility to meet unique missions
- Rule-making/policy resources are strained
 - Cumbersome committee process (28 committees)
 - Outdated/inefficient technology

DFARS Challenges

- Resource intensive
 - 300 plus people support the FAR/DFARS creation
 - 28 committees (24 led by DoD)
 - Paper-based processes
 - Many agencies involved – can hinder efficiency
- Time consuming
 - Idea to reality: 14 month average for FAR changes, 11 months for DFARS
- Difficult to participate in the rule process
- Blurred distinction between true “regulation” (what to do) and “guidance” (how to do it)

DFARS Rulemaking

End-to- End Life Cycle Tracking and Reporting

DoD Direction

- Conduct a comprehensive review and transformation of the FAR and DFARS
 - Reduce DFARS by 40%
- Include operational proceedings used to revise and implement the DFARS

Fits within OSD Goals and Priorities

- ✓ Improve credibility and effectiveness of
- ✓ acquisition and logistics support process
